Escapees Discussion Forums Offer Answers to All Your RVing Questions

There is no better place to go to ask your questions, get technical advice, and share your love of RVing than Escapees Discussion Forums. It is a place where RVers come to learn about, talk about, and share information on all aspects of the RVing lifestyle.

Escapees Discussion Forum is the next best thing to an open engine hood in a crowded RV park. Your fellow RVers are sure to poke their heads in and share their expertise. Only, this time, you are actually asking for their advice!

The forum is divided into six sections with each section containing topics and threads (conversations that apply to that topic). You do not have to be an Escapees member, but you will have to “register” in order to participate in the conversations (make posts). If you’d like to view the links included in this message, you should register now.

The most heavily visited and popular sections are:

RVing Forums contain 20 discussion groups, with subjects that include Beginning RVing, Technical Tips and Tricks, RVing on a Budget, Working on the Road, Boondocking, Sharing the Full-time Lifestyle, Medium-duty and Heavy-duty Trucks, and many more!

RV Marketplace includes all kinds of items for sale such as RVs, towables, accessories, memberships, and RV sites/lots. There are also job opportunity listings and rig exchange posts.

Ask the Experts! This section houses Escapees-endorsed specialty services where members and visitors can directly ask the industry expert representatives their questions regarding insurance. Insurance companies consist of SkyMed (emergency medical air ambulance service), PoliSeek RV Insurance (formerly Aon Recreation Insurance, specializes in RVs, autos, and other recreational vehicles), Foremost RV Insurance (specializes in motorhomes and travel trailers), Friesen-Strain Insurance (provides individual health plans through Blue Cross Blue Shield of Texas), and Coach-Net Roadside Assistance (provides 24-7 technical and emergency roadside assistance).

Other Subjects include Computers/Software, Amateur Radio, Activities/Hobbies, Veterans, Finances/Investing, Health Issues/Medical Insurance, Recipes, and other miscellaneous categories that don't fit elsewhere.

There are thousands of registered members who post on a regular basis and hundreds of topics that are addressed each day. Under Beginning RVing you may find a question posted like this one:

“My husband and I are thinking about going full-time in the next few years. We have taken lots of trips, but the longest has been for two weeks at a time. We are going to take a six-weeker this fall. I'm curious, do you ever need 'space' from your spouse?”

To that question, 20 responses were returned. Each reply was personal and helpful. In case you are interested in the answer to the poster's question, the general consensus was summarized best this way, “Not only do you have to love your partner, but you have to LIKE them.”

Maybe you're more interested in the popular RV floor plans, makes, or models? Maybe you'd like to know how to set your rig up with solar power? Perhaps you'd like information on tires, generators, or how often to caulk your roof? There is no question too basic or too complex for the forum. Whether it is technical advice or caring support, you are sure to find the answers in this simple-to-use resource. Go to Escapees Discussion Forum today and take part in this valuable, FREE resource where full-time RVing experts are willing to share their knowledge, and you are sure to discover the friendliest RV community on the net while you're at it.
